

The interactive portal Reha-Recht.de

The 'Right to rehabilitation and participation discussion forum' is a portal to exchange information on practice-oriented legal issues for the legal professionals, stakeholders at companies, institutions and associations, and anybody interested. The service is a reliable resource and a research tool for scientific and occupational work, as well as for daily living of persons with disabilities.

A group of editors consisting of renowned experts on social and rehabilitation law, social medicine and social sciences monitor the technical standard of the discussion forum and help improve it.

Users in the discussion forum can publish, discuss and comment on articles, and suggest topics for public discussion. A free monthly newsletter provides information on new articles and current activities.

The content of the portal is available mainly in German, selected information on international law is provided in English.

The Deutsche Vereinigung für Rehabilitation (German Association for Rehabilitation, DVfR) has made it its mission to help shape rehabilitation according to social requirements, and to promote the right to rehabilitation and access being applied and advanced. One of the key services of the DVfR is the 'Right to rehabilitation and participation discussion forum' at www.reha-recht.de.
